Naruto Uchiha, The Kitsune Blader

Chapter 1

It was a warm evening as a lone figure raced through the trees at a brisk pace. This figure was none other than Naruto Uzumaki, and he was late. Late for a date night with his girlfriend Hinata. Wearing a variation of his orange jump suit, with the only difference in his normal way of dressing, was the black dress pants, he had saved for this very special night. As he ran, he gained the attention of some unwanted villagers. They always had a deep hatred of the Kyuubi jinchuriki, even after he saved the village from Pain, he was hated, often attacked on the street when he was walking home. The villagers spotted him as he jumped from the trees to the rooftops of Konoha. Pushing his speed to the limit, Naruto ran hard trying to be on time, for once, for his date.

As he landed in front of the restaurant, he checked his watch, sighing as he was ten minutes late. Naruto opened the door, seeing Hinata at a table, half-finished with a glass of red wine. Walking over to her, he opened his mouth to speak, but was stopped by Hinata raising her hand.

"I know you're sorry. Naruto, I'm sick of this. You constantly being late, being called away whenever I've planned something. I'm done, it's over."

Hinata then got up and left. Every word had hit Naruto like a freight train. He stood there, tears falling down his face. He then reached into his pocket, and pulled out a black velvet box. Opening it he gazed upon the ring that he had planned to give her. Naruto slowly turned and walked toward the entrance of the restaurant, his head lowered. Slowly walking on to the street, Naruto was quickly surrounded by a mob, either armed with various weapons, or sharp kitchen utensils.

"I know what you want," Naruto started, " But I really don't care do your worst."

The crowd was shocked, he had never just let them attack him, there was always a least a small chase. Naruto looked around, people backing off slightly, as if rethinking their decision to attack him. But all hope was shattered when he was hit in the back of the leg with a kunai knife. The villagers rushed in, as if the kunai was a trigger, pulled on a starting pistol. Slicing at Naruto, he screamed in agony, as a spear entered his stomach. More weapons pierced his skin, making Naruto's screams continue. The attack continued for about ten minutes. When the mob had finished, Naruto looked like a pincushion. Blades and knifes were seen, piercing him all over his body. Naruto as a way to cope, entered his mindscape, to talk to his old friend.

"Kurama, I need your help," Naruto said, looking at the fox with a strange despair.

"Kit, I could do something, using the Sage's power, we could go to a different dimension. It will be different, no telling how it would affect you," the fox replied, sounding concerned for his container.

"Do it, I have nothing left here in this world," and in the blink of an eye Naruto began to glow a bright orange.

On the outside, the villagers watched in horror as the weapons were slowly pushed out of Naruto's body, healing him in the process. A bright light flashed, causing the crowd to look away. When the light died down the crowd turned back, only for them to find, burns in the shape of giant wings on the ground where Naruto had once laid.
